

At FIBO, C + P is showing how to convert lockers into real assets

Designing future-proof changing rooms with integrated solution concepts from C + P

Economic and intelligent lockers. Flexible storage space for individual user behavior. Create the right atmosphere inside and outside the changing room. Feeling good, from start to end. Everything that operators of fitness, wellness, and health facilities need to achieve this is offered from a single source at C + P Möbelsysteme GmbH & Co. KG. Under the motto "100% Form Meets 100% Function," the experts for steel lockers will be presenting future-proof quality products in an appealing design at hall 8, stand D46, that can be integrated into any ambience and also guarantee users optimal ease of use.

Trade show highlight: C + P SmartLocker—your gateway to a magically efficient time

This year's trade show highlight combines efficiency, security, reliability, versatility, and comfort—as an answer to digitization and altered consumer behavior. With its new SmartLocker solutions for indoors and outdoors, C + P is showing its visitors how business operations can be made smarter and more efficient. Lockers that are no longer passive storage locations and are instead real assets in fitness, wellness, and health facilities. To save time, space, and money. In doing so, C + P remains true to its principles and offers everything from one source—an intelligent locker system with the matching software and technical support.

Custom changing room solutions—from traditional lockers to high-end

Moreover, the professional audience at the trade show stand can get an idea of what storage space solutions the steel locker experts have in their portfolio. As one of the largest industrial manufacturers in this segment, C + P offers a large selection of lockers for different needs and application areas and realizes individual customer requests. From traditional lockers for basic requirements to high-end storage space solutions—it's all possible.

Healthy interior greening with green walls

Health-conscious and active people aim to bring their body and mind into harmony. To do this successfully, it is important for the fitness and wellness facilities to have the right ambience. At the trade show stand, C + P will show how the right greening not only promotes the well-being in a space, but also enhances people's motivation. Green walls from the Climate Office product range are therefore suitable as the perfect complement to furnishings in the lobby, the workout areas, the relaxation areas, and even the changing rooms.
